Appendix B states that "the Director of Security, the Deputy Director of Security, and the Deputy Director of Security for Personnel Security and Investigations may approve certain collection activities as specified in these procedures." There are two types of collection activities, i.e., standard collection and special collection. The guidelines do not indicate which of these activities can be approved by the Office of Security officials identified above.

Also questions whether or not we need to place, under Standard Collection Techniques (pp 4+5 of both Guidelines), authority to conduct records checks to verify employment education, residences and financial information if such is germane to this matter.
